

PARK BOARD RESIGN.

It Is Said Mayor Strong Holds the Resignations.

TAKE EFFECT ON OCTOBER 1.

President King Pleads Ill Health and His Associates to Leave with Him.

The report that Mayor Strong has received the resignations of the four members of the Park Board has set politicians to wirepulling.

While the rumor lacks confirmation by the Mayor or the men directly concerned, it was considered this forenoon as quite certain that an entire reorganization of the Park Board will be in order shortly.

The withdrawal of Commissioners Haven, Julliard and Roosevelt hinges upon the decision of President David H. King to resign his office.

It is pretty well understood that the condition under which Mr. Haven, Mr. Julliard and Mr. Roosevelt consented to accept the appointments by Mayor Strong was that they should be privileged to select the fourth member, who should also be its President.

Mr. King was the one whom the two had in mind, and when he was asked to step in and take the Chairmanship he hesitated before agreeing to do so.

In health and press of business affairs were his excuses for not desiring the responsibility of the office. After much persuasion, however, Mr. King consented to serve.

Last May well defined rumors were current that President King had expressed to the Mayor his intention to resign previous to his departure for Europe. It is said that Mayor Strong, who was at the time in New York, was aware that Mr. King was feeling quite ill and was somewhat troubled with nervous prostration, which doubtless militated greatly against his doing hard work in the Board. The Mayor said he had no doubt that Mr. King would be glad to retire, but friends in the Board will arrange matters so as to keep him with them.

The impression from Mayor Strong's remarks was that in view of President King's temporary indisposition work would be taken off his hands pending his recovery.

CAISSONS IN MINETTA BROOK.

A Submarine Diver Descends in Sixth Avenue.

A submarine diver made his first descent yesterday afternoon into the bowels of Manhattan Island. John O'Brien, who helped to lay the foundations of the Brooklyn Bridge, went down into the waters of old Minetta Brook where they bubbled up in Nineteenth street just east of Sixth avenue.

O'Brien was clad and armed with the apparatus for submarine diving, helmet, weighted boots, air-pump and all. No greater precautions could have been taken for his safety had he descended to the bed of the East River.

Minetta Brook is one of the old water courses of this city that has been hidden but not extinguished by the foundations of buildings erected over it. Every now and then it comes to the surface when the builders dig too deep.

It has caused great trouble and expense to owners of buildings along Twenty-third street from Sixth avenue to the East River.

The contractors who are erecting Stiegel, Cooper & Co.'s huge building on Sixth avenue, Eleventh street, and Nineteenth street, dug for the building foundations until they struck Minetta Brook. They tried to pump the water out, but as fast as it was pumped out, it came back. They then tried to build foundations for the granite foundations.

Then the contractors, hopeless of pumps, determined to build the foundations in caissons, as piles for bridges are built. John O'Brien was employed to superintend the sinking of the caissons.

A shaft 12 by 12 and 24 feet deep had been dug and a caisson was lowered into it. This shaft filled with water. A ladder, however, was lowered into it, and on the ladder O'Brien descended. He worked in the shaft for an hour and a quarter, while hundreds of people watched his descent. Whenever he came to the surface O'Brien brought up armfuls of rock and mud. By his aid two sections of the caisson were put in place.

O'Brien had intended to work all night, but the gasoline torches that had been lowered were not delivered. Mr. Cooper of the firm, came from Chicago to watch the progress of the work.

Twenty-nine boys holding Pulitzer scholarships were among the 135 boys and girls who were present this morning at the opening of the school year at the Horace Mann High School, on One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, Morning side Heights, this morning.

The third year of Mr. Pulitzer's arrangement with the Horace Mann High School also began today. Those of 1905 will graduate next June, fully prepared and competent to enter any college or university in the land.

The first Monday of each month of the school year, October to June, each boy receives $25 in cash from the caisson. The scholarships given by Mr. Pulitzer go further than this. Besides this $25 a month, or $250 a year, each student receives tuition for tuition for three years in the Horace Mann School, where the charges are $100 a year, and should he elect on graduation, to go to the College, he will receive tuition in either of the thorough courses in Columbia University, the College of Arts, or School of Mines, or the professional courses, School of Medicine, School of Law.
